DONORA PROPOSES TO ERECT A NEW COMMUNITY BUILDING

Funds Left from War Chest To Be Utilized in New Civic Structure

TO BE CENTER OF ACTIVITIES

Donora proposes to have a community building, this project being assured by the creation of a Community Building fund from the assets of the Donora War Chest, which have been turned over to the new organization.

It appears that when the armistice was signed the Donora War Chest still had a large sum on money on hand, or which no demands were made by the various war activities, for which these funds had been provided, out of which Donora's contributions were to be met. During the existence of the War Chest at Donora the board of governors collected $84,611.87, and of this amount $58,051.64 were expended, leaving a balance of $26,560.23.

This latter sum has been turned over to a Board of Trustees, composed of Ben G. Binns, Al. O'Donnell and Charles F. Thomas, to be administered by them until such time as it is deemed convenient to erect the building which will be constructed to meet the civic needs of the community.

In addition to this handsome sum of money the borough authorities have donated a site for the building at Donner Park, which is valued at $20,000, and which insures the erection of the proposed structure near the center of the town.

In this building will be provided handsome quarters for the American Legion, while it is likely that the new Chamber of Commerce now being organized will also be provided with accommodations in the new structure.

Building costs at the present ime will likely delay the erection of the building for a time, but untimately it is proposed to erect a structure of which the community will be very proud, and which will be the center of activities of all civic affairs of the borough.

ARBOR DAY DATES HAVE BEEN CHANGED

Arbor day dates for Pennsylvania have been changed to April 8 and 15, according to announcement by the department of public instruction on Thursday. This change was made for the purpose of co-operating with the Liberty Bell Bird Club, which has done considerable work toward recognition of the second Friday in April as a national bird day.

Resumption at McKeesport Will Give 10,000 Men Jobs

With resumption in full next Monday of its tinplate works, the two largest industries of McKeesport, employing 10,000 men, will be in full operation as regards the working force and time. Other mills in McKeesport and immediate vicinity are working from 50 to 85 per cent of capacity. In this district it is estimated conservatively that 30,000 men are getting 90 per cent employment.

Official announcement of full resumption of the tinplate works, which contains 44 mills and is the largest works of the kind in the world, was operated partly for a week or two in January and last week 20 mills were in operation. This week 26 mills have been running. Beginning Monday each of the 44 mills is to be running and the tinhouse will also be in operation, giving employment to over 3,000 men and women, mostly skilled and highly paid.

An official of the National Tube company said yesterday: "The National works is running full in all departments and has been right along. There is no prospect of any immediate change in this situation. The National works employs 7,600 persons."

The plate mill of the W. Dewees Wood works of McKeesport will resume next Monday, giving work to several hundred men. At that plant the men have had alternate weeks of work and unemployment.

The big steel works at Duquesne is working with a force of 5,000 men excepting that for several weeks the men have been idle on Saturday afternoons. At Clairton the steel mills are working close to full time.

SEVEN INDICTED AS WHISKEY ROBBERS

The Federal Grand Jury at Pittsburg on Thursday returned an indictment against William Reilly, Harry Morris, William Phelin, R.C. Pond, Max Jacobs, Leslie Miller, and Ray Sparks, in which they are charged with breaking into the government warehouse of the Vandergrift Distilling Co., near Vestaburg this county, December 20, and removing 34 barrels of whiskey. Sparks was also indicted on a charge of offering a bribe of $1,479 to Federal officers.

The actual theft of the whiskey was frustrated by prohibition agents and state policemen, who learned of the contemplated robbery through the alleged bribe. The officers concealed themselves in the warehouse andafter the whiskey was taken from the warehouse and placed on a motor truck they attempted to arrest the men. Shots from revolvers and rifles were exchanged and the whisky was recovered, but the robbers escaped in the darkness.

THREE MONESSEN BOYS MISSING FROM HOME

Three Monessen school boys, Harold Wintz, Zenas Libengood and Fred Osawick, are missing since Monday. The youngsters, toting a new suit of clothes, an additional pair of shoes and a saxaphone valued at $150 have not been seen since they left their respective homes bound for school. State police are working on the case.

Marriage license was taken out in Washington on Thursday by Fred Duncan and Beulah Moore, both of Charleroi.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

The Men's Bible Class of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met Friday evening in the Sunday school room of the church, and a program, entertaining and instructive, was presented.

Dr. J. W. Manon, the class president, presided, and Dr. F. C. Stahlman made the first address emphasizing the need of Bible training for our youth. James McQuaide gave a reading, 'On the Road to Mandalay" by Kipling, that was well received. R. D. Hill made the next address on "The Need of Right Living," and it was inspiring. The address of Rev. John R. Burson, the class teacher, was inspirational and instructive.

A trio composed of Van Speers, Dr. Manon and Rev. Burson sang a number, and Arch Osborne, the class secretary, gave the present class membership as 109. The class went on record as favoring the enforcement of the present-day Sunday laws. The committee on furnishing lunch was composed of Lee Honsaker, E. C. Robertson, Loren Tope, James F. Hill, J. W. Kimmins, Hal Christy, Robert Craig, Clifford Robertson, F. H. Bell, F. L. Knappenberger and John Dalzell.

This committee not only served a two course lunch to the men in attendance, but went up stairs where the choir was practicing and gave them a generous helping. A cake, in which was hidden an eatable object, was presented by Mr. Honsaker, made a guessing contest that was much enjoyed. But the chorus singing of the class was the part on the program enjoyed by all, and the evening's pleasure was enhanced by the universal good will and Christian courtesy shown by every one present.

Mr. Clarence Bly and family have gone to Phoenix, Arizona, for the benefit of Mr. Bly's health. Word has been received that they arrively safely.

BIDS FOR NEW HIGHWAYS SHOW SLIGHT REDUCTION

Slump Less Than Expected but Outlook is Much Brighter

MONONGAHELA PIKE FIGURES

The low bidder on the proposed improvement of 16,137 feet of highway of the Monongahela Pike between Washington and Monongahela, situated in Nottingham and Somerset townships, was the Jones Construction company of Salem, Ohio. Its bid was $211,255.

The bids were opened by the State Department of Highways in Harrisburg on Friday, at which time 130 contractors submitted proposals for the 26 projects the highway department wishes to place under contract. The combined projects take in 104 miles of highway which it is proposed to improve with durable roads. In some cases the roads were advertised for the second and third time, and showed a decrease in prices of between 10 and 20 per cent over former bids. The differences were not evidenced in all the projects and was a source of disappointment to the Highway Department officials, in view of the decreasing cost of labor and material.

In speaking of the tenders made by contractors, George H. Bliss, assistant highway commissioner, said that the figures indicate a slight break in prices. This is due to easing up of the labor situation. Contractors report that men are most plentiful in most sections of Pennsylvania. The railroad situation has also improved. The prices of materials, however, have not kept step with the downward trend of labor cost, and this is particularly true of stone, which enters so largely into the construction of highways of modern type.

However, the outlook for the building of roads in the State is much brighter than for many years past, and it is anticipated that many such projects that have been held over for many months will finally be placed under contract.

LOCALS WIN EASILY FROM DONORA HIGH

The Donora high school basket ball team came to Charleroi last evening, intent on humbling the locals, but, when the final whistle blew, the boys from our thriving sister city down the river had to be content with the short end of the score. Coach Stahlman's proteges leading the "also rans" by thirty-three points to twelve. The attendance was large and enthusiastic, there being a goodly number of Donoraites present to lend their team the necessary encouragement. Of the contest, by itself, it can be said that both teams put up quite a spirited exhibition, but Donora's most pronounced weakness—inability to cage the ball—was so obvious that the wonder of it is that the team was not beaten more ignominously. Time after time did the visiting players have chances to register baskets, but their feeble attempts availed them naught. Their work in this regard was disappointing to their friends and supporters, and nowhere was this weakness more apparent than with their foul shooters. The team's floor play was commendable, the boys showing much adeptness in passing the ball. However, the advantage that accrued to them in this direction was dissipated by their extremely poor basket work. Good floor work, minus the ability to convert chances at the baskets into scores, is not in itself conductive to victory, hence the defeat of Donora, and that by a better exhibition of basket ball by the winning team. Rubin's work stood out most prominently for the visitors, with the exception of his foul shooting, although each player labored hard for victory.

The Charleroi boys went into action with Wagner, Stephens, Burnett, Webster and Brown comprising the lineup. This combination worked fairly satisfactorily, and, when the referee's whistle announced the termination of the first quarter, the locals were leading by a score of 9 to 3. During the second period, Wagner was replaced by Daniel, the former suffering from a slight indisposition. The game had at this time resolved itself into more or less of a procession, and Charleroi was enjoying a lead of 15 points when the half ended, the score being 22 to 7. Substitutions were thereafter made so frequently by the team's mentor that the local lineup resembled more or less a crazy quilt, but the boys continued to increase the score, until the conclusion of the third period found them well in front, and that by a safe margin. Every man on the squad was given a chance to appear on the floor. Donora was unable to score a single in the third period, a somewhat unusual occurrence in a basket ball game. Both teams went at it, hammer and tongs, in the concluding quarter, and despite the earnest efforts put forth, managed to add only five points apiece to their scores. Frank Wagner was practically

The entertainment committee of Charleroi Lodge, No. 494, B. P. O. E., of which S. W. Sharpnack is chairman, has arranged for a Washington's Birthday Party, to be held at the club house next Tuesday evening, February 22. John Jenkins and his orchestra will furnish music for the dancing which will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Other features will be a bowling contest and games of various kinds, in which all the guests can participate. The committee anticipates a large attendance at the affair.

Miss Grace Heuple, of Charleroi, and Miss Flora Moyer, of Monessen, left yesterday for State College, where they will be guests at a house party over the week end.

A WHOLESOME PROTEST

The proposed law to prohibit all smoking in the executive offices of the Federal government may or may not have been intended as a first step toward a law to prohibit smoking anywhere whatsoever, but the tendencies of the times unquestionably place the latter within the bounds of possibility. In any case it is both encouraging and refreshing to find that Senator Smith of Arizona in opposing the proposition, delivered himself in common-sense fashion as follows:

"Mr. President, this is my final protest in public life against the effort of the Senate of the United States, or the Congress of the United States, to reach out its hand under various pretenses of power through the interstar commerce clause of the Constitution, or some other device, to go into the homes of the people and regulate, or attempt to regulate them all, in their conduct where that conduct, even if it is not exactly the right thing, takes no right from any one else, and leaves them at least in the possession of some of the natural liberies of man."

Senator Smith further declared that the chief effect of the legislation which regulators of personal habits are now constantly urging Congress to enact, would be to "raise a generation of dudes and nincompoops." And hypocrites, and law violators by the million with ever lessening respect for all law, he might pointedly have added.

AN IMPOTENT LEAGUE.

It is reported that the Russian Reds have mobilized a force upward of 600,000 men for conducting a spring offensive against Poland and Roumania. Both of these countries are members of the league of nations but there is no hint of aid coming from that source. The only league of nations army is the one raised to conduct a plebicite at Vilna, and when it tried to cross Switzerland to reach the city it was stopped at the border. In all the history of the world there never was an organization, great or small, so completely impotent as the league to accomplish its alleged aims.

THE THRIFTY JAP.

Japan appears to be "rubbing it in" with regard to Yap. Announcement is now made that she intends to fortify her new island possessions. It is also said that permission has been denied a Filipino weather observer to visit Yap for the purpose of making observations. For a country that took practically no part in the war, Japan did not fare so badly with Shantung and a score or more of valuable islands added to her territory.

Twenty years ago 39 cents out of every dollar of railroad earnings was spent for wages; last year 52 cents out of every dollar of earnings went for wages. That is something worth keeping in mind while discussing railroad problems.

It is a waste of breath for the pulpit orator to talk about "Satan's Coaling Stations." The hides of coal profiteers can not be singed with mere rhetoric.

A WISE NAVAL POLICY.

It is the soundest wisdom that prompted the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs to report against any suspension of our naval building program or the substitution of other types of fighting craft for the big battleship. The Senate adopted a resolution directing the committee to ascertain whether it would be advisable for this country to enter upon a six month's vacation in naval construction. With Senator Miles Poindexter as chairman, a subcommittee conducted the investigation and submitted the report which the full committee adopted.

"It is not practical," says the report, "and it is not a sound policy to suspend the naval construction program of the United States now in progress for a period of six months nor at all." It is shown that even though Great Britain enters upon a naval holiday the completion of our battleship program will bring our fleet only to equal strength with hers. Much of the report is devoted to an exposure of the fallacy of the argument that the capital ship is obselete—an argument advanced by those who place a mistaken reliance on the airship and submarine as the dominent weapons of the future.

The report declares that the arguments against the big ship are based on "the old fallacy that war can be cheaply won by hitting, dodging, and running." It is recalled that the same agitation against building of fighting ships occurred in the early 80's, when the automobile torpedo first became a weapon of fair accuracy. It was claimed that a small torpedo boat, costing $100,000, would be able to destroy a battleship costing millions. But defensive armament met the new foe and defeated its danger. The history of the submarine in the past few years has been precisely similar. Developed to a high degree of perfection by the Germans, it nearly succeeded in winning the war for them, but means for meeting it attack were discovered in time to save the cause of the allies. It is a fact, says Senator Poindexter in the report, that not a single ship of the Grand Fleet was sunk at the battle of Jutland by torpedoes, despite the fact that great numbers of them were launched by the Germans. Furthermore, Admiral Jellicoe's vessels cruised at will in the North Sea for months without loss, although the waters were infested with submarines all of that time.

The fact is, in the opinion of the Naval committee that war was won by the potential power of the allied battleships. The enemy ships were kept confined to their ports and the sea lanes were kept open for the transportation of supplies and troops to the western front. The morale of the German naval personnel was destroyed and the offensive power of the German fleet crippled by inaction.

"Situated as is the United States" the report concludes, "with oceans separating it from other great powers, its first line of defense must necessarily be its navy, and so long as it has a battlefleet which can hold the sea against attack, both its continental territory and its island possessions, as well as its commerce and the rights and interests of its citizens upon the high seas are setive size of the armies of the world. On the other hand, if from lack of heavy ships of the line, or other weaknesses its navy cannot hold the sea against attack, then, even though it might have the greatest army in the world, its island possessions would fall away from it, its commerce would be destroyed, its coasts blockaded and subjected to constant attacks."

Post-Mortem Jokes.

Quite an interesting article, we fancy, could be written on "The Humor in Wills." For example, take this passage from the will of Lord Pembroke: "I bequeath nothing to Lord Say, because I know he will bestow it upon the poor." Or this: A Lancashire gentleman bequeathed an ounce of modesty to the editor of the London Journal, explaining the small quantity by saying that he was "convinced that an ounce would be found more than he would ever make use of."—Boston Transcript.

House With Straw Walls.

A house with walls made of compressed straw has been erected in Paris. The framework of the building is of wood and the sides are filled in with blocks of tightly compressed straw, which are stated to be as hard as concrete and just as inflammable. Owing to the lightness of the materials only small foundations are needed, and a house of this kind can be built in a month. The idea of using straw in this way is attributed to a French textile engineer.

Freshen Roses.

Roses will give much greater return if, before they are put into the water, the ends of the stems are crushed or mashed. Then when the rose wilts cut off the end of the stem, slit it in half for about one half inch, hold the ends in boiling water for a few minutes, then plunge the stems in cold water. The rose will be as fresh as new. Do this at night and let the roses stand in a deep pitcher of water all night before placing them in the vase.

"A Little Bird Told Me."

The common expression, "A little bird told me so," means that information respecting a matter has come to a person in some secret and perhaps mysterious manner. The saying is not a literal quotation, but is borrowed from the twentieth verse of the tenth chapter of Ecclesiastes. The verse opens with a warning not to curse those in power, and even in thought or "in thy bedchamber; for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter."

Questions.

1. What should be done for a case of fainting?
2. What is the first aid treatment for sun stroke?
3. When the face of an unconscious person is pale—what position should the head be placed in?

FIRST AID

When Bill Williams, still the town drunkard because he had some money and little strength of character, gave a strangled cry and fell convulsed to the ground, he was allowed to beat his head, bruise his hand by dashing it against the curb, and bite his tongue nearly in two while one worthy citizen ran for a doctor, another for salt, and the rest crowded about him fascinated by his strange contortions.

Bill should have been given First Aid, by gently but firmly holding his head to keep him from bruising it, by putting a twisted handkerchief or other soft substance between his teeth to keep him from biting his tongue, and by restraining the lashing of his legs and arms until the attack passed. He had an epileptic fit—fairly common. While it lasted the doctor could not have done more than keep him from injuring himself by his violent movements. The fit usually passes in a few minutes. There should be no attempt to give anything by the mouth.

The Reverend Doctor Johnson, preaching in his crowded and ill-ventilated church, was interrupted by a commotion in the space behind the pews, due to Miss James, who, after standing for three quarters of an hour, fell to the floor and lay there, pale, unconscious, and apparently not breathing.

Sympathetic by-standers held her in a half sitting position and tore her neck clothing away, while others hurried for water, which they dashed at her face with little reference to quantity or aim.

Miss James had a fainting fit, because she had not enough blood in her head to keep her brain conscious. The pallor of her face and lips showed this. She needed more blood in her head than she was getting; therefore, instead of lifting her up she should have been allowed to lie flat, till one of the many doctors always occupying the front pews of churches, could reach her and direct further proceedings. Flicking her face gently with a handkerchief—wet with cold water—would have been more immediately helpful and less subsequently annoying than the liberal and ill directed pitcher of water with which her uppergarments were thoroughly soaked. These fainting fits usually last but a few minutes.

On the following Sunday, Dr. Johnson's sermon was again interrupted; this time by a man sitting in the front pew.

Mr. Bultitude, the over fat, under exercised, red faced man, thick necked, puffed and flabby manufacturer of Bultitude's Balm for Bruised Babies, in the midst of his customary and at times audible doze, rolled first to the cushion of his seat and then to the floor, breathing heavily and noisily, and with his ordinarily red face becoming dusky purple. It was clear that there was too much blood in his head. Therefore, the first aid would be to loosen his neck gear and to raise his head to let the blood flow out freely through the veins; and to free his breathing, since it was loudly snoring, by holding his tongue out of his mouth and by pushing his chin well up until a doctor could be secured to take care of this serious and perhaps fatal attack, probably apoplexy, which means blood leaking from its vessels into the brain. Mr. Bultitude did not recover consciousness in a few minutes and was carried senseless to his house.

Jack Clark, on a hot August day, on a hike with his Boy Scout Troop, began to lag and feel "all in"; he presently dropped senseless to the ground, with a wet, cold, pale face. Jack was suffering from heat exhaustion, which is like fainting. His pale face showed that there was not enough blood going into his brain. His fellow-scouts gave him prompt "first aid." They carried him to a shady place, put him in a comfortable position, kept his head flat on the ground, dried and warmed his cold, wet skin by rubbing it vigorously with towels, and flicked his face with a wet handkerchief. In three minutes by the Scout Master's watch, Jack opened his eyes, said he felt sick at his stomach, sat up, and in ten minutes more wanted to go on. The boys sent him home in a passing automobile, and sent word to his doctor.

A cold, pale sweat is a sign of trouble, sometimes serious trouble. A hot, red sweat is usually a sign of health.

A sudden attack of insensibility is of serious consequence in proportion to the time it lasts.

When a person is unconscious efforts to administer stimulants by the mouth are not only useless, but dangerous.

When the face is red and congested, the head should be elevated.

When the face is pale, the head should be kept low.

When you do not know what to do, do nothing; except place the patient in a comfortable position protected from the heat in summer, from cold in winter.

CORONER IS NOW SHERIFF EX-OFFICIO

Coroner William Greenlee is now Sheriff, ex officio. Under a ruling of Judge J. A. McIlvaine the coroner is not required to give a bond or be sworn in, his bond and oath as coroner being held sufficient. Mr. Greenlee is simply coroner acting specially as sheriff. to fill a temporary vacancy in the office of sheriff. He will sign all official papers as "William Greenlee, coroner, executing the office of sheriff."

Deputies Guy R. Day, William B. Baker and Ody Abbott have been sworn in as deputies, "acting under William Greenlee, coroner. executing the office of sheriff." The business of the office will now move along as usual until a successor to Sheriff Gray is appointed.

The law as to the compensation of Coroner Greenlee, acting as sheriff, is not clear. It is a question whether or not he will come under a salary or receive his compensation in fees as did Sheriff Gray. His counsel is of the opinion, offhand. without going fully into the law, that since Mr. Greenlee is simply acting as sheriff until a successor is appointed, that the law applicable to Sheriff Gray is still applicable to Coroner Greenlee, acting as sheriff.

However, when a successor is appointed there appears to be no doubt that he will come under the law governing counties of over 150,000 population, which would put the office in the salary class.

TOLSTOY IRKED BY IDLENESS

Letter Written by Russian Philosopher Condemns Life Led by Indolent Men of Means.

The Vossische Zeitung prints the following letter by Tolstoy, written in 1884, with the remark that it has never before been published except in Russian, and that its value lies in the fact that as early as 1884 Tolstoy had about made up his mind to do what he did in 1910—leave home and live the life of a peasant. The letter reads in part:

"I am living in the country, involuntarily according to a new method. I go to bed early, get up early write very little but work a great deal, either making boots or mowing hay. I see with joy (or possibly it only seems to me like joy) that there is something up in my family. They do not condemn me; as a matter of fact, they seem ashamed of themselves.

"What miserable creatures we are and how we have all gone astray. There are a great many of us here, my own children and the children of Kusminsky, and nobody does a thing but gulp down food. They are all big and strong, yet they do nothing. People in the village are at work. My children eat and make their clothes and their rooms dirty and that is all. Everything is done for them by somebody else, yet they do nothing for anybody. And worst of all, they seem to feel that it is as it should be. But I have had my own part in building up such a system, and I can never forget it. I feel that for them I am a trouble-fete. But it is clear that they are beginning to see that this cannot go on this way forever."

HAD NO CAUSE FOR WORRY

Under the Circumstances Wash White Could Afford to Live Life of Elegant Leisure.

Senator Gronna of Dakota was analyzing a political opponent at a Dakota luncheon.

"The man is bad through and through," he said. "He's actually so bad that he mistakes badness for goodness—is proud of himself, in short.

"By Jove, he makes me think of Uncle Washington White. As Uncle Wash loafed in front of the poolroom one morning the preacher's wife stopped and said:

"'Washington, why don't you go to work?'

"Old Wash White, as he puffed serenely on his corncob, answered:

"'Bekase Ah got a wife an' children toe suppo't—'

"'But,' the preacher's wife impatiently interrupted, 'you can't support them by loafing here in front of this poolroom.'

"'Excuse me, Miss' Fo'thly,' said Wash, with dignity. 'Lemme finish mah remark. Wot Ah means toe say is that Ah's got a wife an' chillun toe suppo't me.'"—Detroit Free Press.

New York Boys' New Game.

The game of marbles no longer holds a throne in boyville. Any New York side street where there's enough room between bluecoats and automobile traffic to play, will show you that a new game has taken its place.

"Sidewalk checkers," the boys call it. The new game really has the elements of both the old marble shooting days and checkers as played on a board. Checker men are used—red, black, blue—the color makes no difference. A ring is drawn with chalk and the object is to flip your checker man with enough force to knock your contenders out of the ring.

"Hully gee!" said a future Ponzi as he gathered up his winnings on Reade street near Broadway, "ain't I got enough lumber here to start me a paper mill?"—New York Sun.

Men Who Repair Skeletons.

There are two kinds of skeleton-menders—the bone surgeon and the skeleton-assembler. Art schools, medical colleges, and students of anatomy require an accurately constructed skeleton to aid in their work.

All the bones must be properly assorted and carefully put together. They are strung on fine wires. The skeleton-assembler must also pick out of the hundreds of odd bones that are sent him the 200 or more bones that belong to the particular individual being reconstructed. It is not an easy task, and the price of skeletons is justified by the amount of work required to construct them.—Popular Science Monthly.

May Use South American Wood.

The Pennsylvania railroad, owing to the unprecendented cost of railroad ties, has decided to investigate the adaptability of the hard woods of Central and South America for this purpose, it is announced. Normally the Pennsylvania system uses from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 ties annually. The average net cost has risen fully 100 per cent since the beginning of the war. Furthermore, white oak, which the company regards as the most desirable wood for ties, is becoming scarcer. Therefore, the company has inquiries under way to determine the comparative cheapness and durability of southern hard woods for railroad ties.

The Useless Bell.

"The bell on your house has been out of order for weeks. I should think you would have it repaired."

"What's the use? Nobody ever rings it any more. Our friends just sit out in their cars and honk their auto horns until we come to the door."

SUFFERED SIX YEARS

Mrs. Stoll Tells Women How She Found Relief From Pain

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for six years with pain every month, had vomiting spells the first two days, and was unfit to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took the medicine with satisfactory results. I am a midwife and recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and my daughters take it. You may publish these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LOUISE STOLL, 609 W. York St., Phila., Pa.

It is not natural for women to suffer as did Mrs. Stoll, and in nine cases out of ten it is caused by some displacement or derangement of the system which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes, because it acts as a natural restorative.

Every woman who is subject to cramps, headaches, nervous spells, backache or those dreadful bearing-down pains should profit by Mrs. Stoll's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and if there is any complication write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about her health.
